FOREWORD

We follow the guideposts of those who have passed here before, the almost fairy tale-like creatures of times unknown to us. We meet them on the hillsides and in the valleys; we capture faint fragments of their laughter echoing through our hallways. They travel to us through years of progress, of heartache, of joy, with smiles as winsome and hearts as vital as those we have come to know. Their accomplishments unfold behind us leading us to the place whereon we stand. They are a constant presence among us, yet there are special times when we pause again to acknowledge them.

We journey toward the question mark which hides the future and look back, we who will someday be the vague figures of yesterday. The hope is strong within us that those who, looking back, contemplate the sphere of our own reality may understand the aspirations of our minds and the languages of our hearts, and that they may claim a past as faithfully parental as that which we explore.

YOU are the bows from which your children as living arrows are sent forth.

The archer sees the mark upon the path of the infinite, and He bends you with His might that His arrows may go swift and far.

Let your bending in the Archer's hand be for gladness;

For even as He loves the arrow that flies, so He loves also the bow that is stable.

Amariah Sutton, the first settler of the Williamsport area, came to his 312 acre homestead on the east bank of Lycoming Creek in 1770. In his crude cabin he welcomed many friends, travelers, and adventurers. In 1791 the first meeting under an official circuit of the Methodist Church was held in his log house and this remained the gathering place until the Lycoming Chapel was built 14 years later. Thus, with this small dwelling as nucleus, within forty years the population of the Williamsport community grew to 344. Michael Ross, having planned the city to include 111 acres surrounding a public square, was the founder of Williamsport proper, and on July 4, 1796, he auctioned off lots. Few realized the future which lay ahead of this small town. 1795 saw Lycoming County organized with Williamsport named the county seat.

In 1838 the babe of the giant industry which was to flourish in Williamsport was established. This was the first lumber mill, Big Mill. Foresighted businessmen began to invest their interests in the enterprise and by 1863 there were 45 lumber mills fostered by the Susquehanna Boom. Logs felled in the "back country" were floated down the river and creeks in the Susquehanna watershed to a gentle part of the river that passed by Williamsport. Thus, the quiet, small village became the mecca for the big timber of North Central Pennsylvania. The industry jettied forward and grew to the extent that in 1883 the record week saw 108,226 logs herded to the jaws of the mills to become building materials for many thriving communities. After the decline of the lumber trade Williamsport continued to expand and attract industries, and in 1959 boasted a population of 15,047. Against this background the forerunners of Lycoming College were established and grew.

"The Williamsport Academy for the Education of Youth in the English and other languages, in the Useful Arts, Science, and Literature" was incorporated on April 2, 1811.

The State Legislature appropriated $2,000 annually for the Academy. On the land donated by Michael Ross on West and Third Streets, contractors A. D. Hepburn and Jeremiah Tallman erected an octagonal two story brick building with two rooms on each floor. The Academy was founded largely under the auspices of the Presbyterian Church. The first principal was the Reverend Samuel Henderson, Pastor of Lycoming (Newberry) Presbyterian Church, assisted by Thomas Grier.

Henderson and Grier were followed by other competent men. However, the Academy was doomed to financial failure. In 1834 the State Legislature passed the common school law giving state subsidies to free public schools. Because the public schools were too much for the Academy, from 1835 to 1839 the trustees rented the Academy building to the Town Council for public school use for \$15 per year. In 1839 the land and building were sold to John B. Hall for the reason that the railroad "running to Ralston has its southern terminus near the building and therefore it is both annoying and dangerous for the school." With the \$2,392 realized from the sale the trustees purchased 1 and  $\frac{3}{4}$  acres of land just north of the borough limits. They erected a plain brick three story building which was 40 feet by 60 feet. (This still remains as the west wing of Old Main.) The Legislature discontinued aid to private schools and subsequently in 1845 the new Academy building was sold for \$432. John K. Hays and Peter Vanderbilt were the purchasers, and Hays resold it to the Town Council for \$443.68. Financial problems still continued to plague the struggling school and in 1848 the property was again put up for sale. The school's first annual, the Log Book told the story:

"The way in which Williamsport Dickinson Seminary came to be at all reads almost like a romance.

Toward the end of the year 1847 Rev. Benjamin H. Crever, who was himself the highest type of a broadly cultured Christian gentleman, then stationed at Milton, thirty miles east of Williamsport, hastened to Williamsport to ascertain what might be done toward maintaining the life of the Academy or transforming it into a Methodist institution. It is authenticated history that he walked a large part of the weary way through slush and mud, fearing to lose an hour lest the opportunity might be gone."

B. H. Crever had done his work well and on January 4, 1848, representatives of the Methodist Episcopal Church proposed to the Town Council and the borough of Williamsport that a Board of Trustees should be formed to found a school called Dickinson Seminary which would be auxiliary to Dickinson College at Carlisle. The Baltimore Annual Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church would supervise the school and act as patron. The Town Council accepted the propositions and when, in March of 1848, the Baltimore Conference agreed to extend patronage and support to the school, a foresighted church became associated with a floundering educational adventure. At the first meeting of the trustees in April, 1848, Rev. Thomas Bowman was appointed president of the school and Rev. Benjamin Crever financial agent. Robert Fleming was elected secretary and Judge John Smith treasurer.

An energetic program was launched. Plans for future expansion of the then existing building were expressed by Rev. Bowman in a letter to the Rev. Mr. Crever on May 19, 1848.

"... As to the Semy. buildings I have a new plan in my head, which I think will save some money and still do well in other respects. The plan is this—to raise the present building another story and a half, and add on to the east about 70 ft. of the same height. Have lecture rooms, dining hall and the kitchen all in the basement—run a Hall on first floor east to west through the entire building and have rooms fitted for teacher, steward, and pupils. Leave the Chapel as it is and in the new building on the same floor have rooms for scholars. This I think would give us all the room we want—would save considerable and look very well. . . ."

This was the beginning of the project which ended with the completion of Old Main. On July 3, 1850, the cornerstone was laid for the east wing. In 1854, for $45,575.08 a six story building connecting the two wings was erected. This structure provided rooming accommodations for 200 students and marked the first in a long series of realities fostered by "plans for future expansion."

Dickinson Seminary opened its doors on September 14, 1848, and 212 students attended that first year. The faculty consisted of the Rev. Mr. Bowman, the Rev. and Mrs. Crever, and Miss C. E. Crever, sister of Mr. Crever. By 1850 the Seminary's catalogue could claim that "its success has far surpassed the most sanguine anticipations of its friends." "Convenient access" to the school could be had by coach or canal. The young school had a three year course of study following which a student was prepared to teach in high schools, go into business, or continue education through college. Ambitious students found at their disposal courses such as Latin or Greek grammar, surveying and navigation, logic, rhetoric, astronomy, and even Xenophon's Anabasis. Average cost of room and board for the eleven weeks' quarter amounted to \$20.07 $\frac{1}{2}$  with the highest tuition (for the language course) set at \$6.37 $\frac{1}{2}$  per quarter. The discipline of the school in 1850 was described as "mild but firm, calculated to promote intellectual advancement and improve the heart." Perhaps a glance at some of the "by-laws" will give us an idea of what this policy actually meant:

The hours of study shall be as follows:

FALL AND WINTER TERMS

6 A. M. to 8 A. M.; 1 P. M. to 5 P. M.
9 A. M. to 12 M. ; 7 P. M. to 9 P. M.

SUMMER TERM

6 A. M. to 8 A. M.; 2 P. M. to 6 P. M.
9 A. M. to 12 M. ; 8 P. M. to 9 P. M.

During the hours of study the students shall not be unnecessarily absent from their rooms.

At no time shall any student loiter in the halls, or about the doors, or indulge in jumping, loud talking, whistling, or any other unnecessary noise, or in the use of Tobacco in the buildings.

The students shall not be absent from their rooms at night after 7 o'clock, during the Fall and Winter Terms; or after 8 o'clock during the Summer Term; nor shall they, at any time, attend parties, or mixed assemblies, without permission from one of the teachers; nor shall they, at any time, visit the taverns, eating-houses, or other places of public resort, or on any occasion indulge in the use of intoxicating liquors.

All profane and indecent language, playing at games of chance, injuring the property of the Institution, or of the citizens, quarreling, fighting, or the carrying of firearms, or other dangerous weapons, is strictly forbidden.

The Teachers and Steward must, at all times, have access to the students' rooms, and if it be judged necessary, the rooms will be cleaned at the expense of the occupants.

Cleanliness of person and of apparel, and a gentlemanly and lady-like deportment must be observed by all.

No water, dirt, or other material, shall be thrown from any window in either building.

The occupants of the Boarding House must have their rooms swept and in order by 6 o'clock, A. M., and their lights extinguished by half past 10 P. M.

The Sabbath must be strictly observed by all. No walking about, or visiting, or receiving of visits, will be allowed. All must attend public worship twice during the day at such place as they or their guardians may prefer.

The Rev. Mr. Bowman continued as principal until March, 1858, when he resigned. Rev. John H. Dashiel was appointed principal at the Conference in March of 1858. Eduated at Dickinson College and former resident of Maryland. Mr. Dashiel resigned in 1860 to return to a pastorate.

Financial difficulties became paramount and in 1860 the Seminary was sheriffed at a public auction. Four businessmen and ardent supporters: Abraham Updegraff, 10 year member of the City Council and bank president; Honorable John Smith, associate judge of the Lycoming County Courts; Colonel Jacob Sallade, owner of two saw mills; and Levi Hartman, contractor and builder who constructed the middle portion of Old Main in conjunction with Sallade, purchased the school for $16,500. They offered to sell the Academy to the East Baltimore Conference of the Methodist Church for this price. The Conference formed a joint stock company issuing 165 shares at $100 each and bought some of the shares. On March 26, 1860, the charter was approved by Governor Packer.

In March, 1860, Thompson was appointed principal of the institution with a salary of $800 per year. He changed the name of the Academy to Williamsport Dickinson Seminary and the title of its head man from principal to president. Mulberry Street Methodist Church became the official Seminary Church. Students could now arrive in Williamsport, "one of the most beautiful and healthful places in the state," by railroad. A new rule had been added to the by-laws: "The Ladies and Gentlemen must not visit each others' apartment, walk or ride together, without permission; nor converse together from the windows." The school did allow for "slight association in the recitation-room, at the table, and in the public exercises of the Chapel." 1863 marked a significant point in the modernization of Old Main: running water was introduced into the building. By 1866 there were 436 students enrolled in the Seminary.

Dr. Mitchell made a proposition to the directors on June 20, 1866. He wanted to lease the school for five years. On July 3rd of that year a formal document allowing this was executed and signed. It stipulated that Mitchell was to receive the uncollected assets of the institution and was to erect an addition on the west end at his own expense. Mitchell, making all the decisions, consequently ran the school as though it were privately owned.

The Methodist General Conference dissolved the East Baltimore Conference and formed the Central Pennsylvania Conference in May, 1868. The first session of the Central Pennsylvania Conference was held in Danville, Pa., from March 10-15, 1869. Two days before the Conference convened the Pennsylvania Legislature had chartered the Preachers' Aid Society. The new organization was formed for the "purpose of affording relief to the itinerant ministers of said conference, their wives, widows, and children, and for the education of the latter." The Society was an outgrowth of the East Baltimore Conference's Preachers' Aid Society and was given $36,635.63 as its proportionate share for the churches in the new conference.

On October 23, 1868, a local newspaper, The Bellefonte Watchman printed an article scandalizing the Seminary. This was later carried by the Williamsport Daily Standard. The trustees promptly met and issued a demand for a retraction. It was granted. Thus, probably as a result of this unfavorable publicity, the Williamsport Dickinson Seminary became the main topic of discussion at the Central Pennsylvania Conference session of 1869. The founder, Rev. B. H. Crever, who had left his teaching position many years before, introduced the proposal: "Resolved, That we now re-affirm our interest in our institution of learning at Williamsport, and pledge ourselves anew to support it to the full extent of our opportunity." According to Crever, one of the main values of the Seminary was that "it has been recruiting the ranks of the ministry with young men from among its graduates, many of whom now hold no small space in the public eye."

Part of a committee report to the Conference stated:

"Though having confidence in the present owners of the stock, yet circumstances may urge them to a different disposition of their investment, and in that case this noble institution would be lost to the Church. Are we prepared for this?" "It is understood that some of the larger stockholders are ready to sell their stocks to the conference at par . . . As there are in all 165 shares of stock, the Conference, in order to obtain this control, must have at least 83 shares.

But as the Conference is not in possession of the needed funds, and as our share of the funds of the Preachers' Aid Society of the East Baltimore Conference will now be placed in the hands of our Preachers' Aid Society, which has been duly organized under the charter recently obtained from our Legislature: Therefore,

Resolved, that should the managers of the Preachers' Aid Society of the Central Pennsylvania Conference find that a sufficient amount of the stock can be obtained at a fair price, to secure the conference controlling power in said institution, and in their judgment deeming it a safe investment, we recommend them to make such investment."

The Conference directed the Preachers' Aid Society to secure the Seminary stock. On March 25, 1869, the society Board of Managers appointed a committee consisting of B. H. Crever, Colonel J. Sallade, and I. H. Torrence, which was given the power of purchasing a majority of the stock. At the second session of the annual conference President Mussina reported:

"At a meeting of the board, held June 3, the committee reported the number of shares of seminary stock to be 168, and that 80 $\frac{1}{4}$  of these had been secured to the Aid Society, at a cost of \$9,150, and that 6 shares had been given, making 86 $\frac{1}{2}$  shares in all, and that subscriptions had been obtained to reduce the actual outlay for 86 $\frac{1}{2}$  shares to \$8,225. At the same meeting of our board the directors of the Seminary were requested, should they find it expedient, to cancel the lease with Dr. Mitchell at a cost of \$1,000; to issue stock to that amount, to be purchased by the Aid Society. This was accordingly done. Since then, two new heaters have been put into the Seminary, for payment of which seven shares of stock have been is- sued, making in all 185 shares. The board has continued to buy stock, until we now own 132 of the 185 shares at an actual outlay of \$12,900. The par value of these 132 shares, is \$13,200; but their value, as based on offers actually made to members of the board, for the seminary property, is \$25,300; and even this as compared with other property in the city of Williamsport, is far below their real value."

By the time of the annual meeting of stockholders of the Seminary on June 23, 1869, the Preachers' Aid Society had 89½ votes. Ten shares were given to Mitchell. He cancelled the lease and donated some of his stock to the Preachers' Aid Society. On March 20, 1872, President Mussina reported that the Preachers' Aid Society owned 162 of 185 shares of the Seminary stock. He advised the Conference to purchase all of the shares and assume direct management of the Seminary. The final push to acquire the remaining 21 shares was made at the conference of 1876. A committee of the conference reported "that if the Seminary was properly managed and sustained: it will be immediately and perpetually remunerative to the members of the society, in educational facilities and moral influence." In 1878 the last of the 185 shares were purchased.

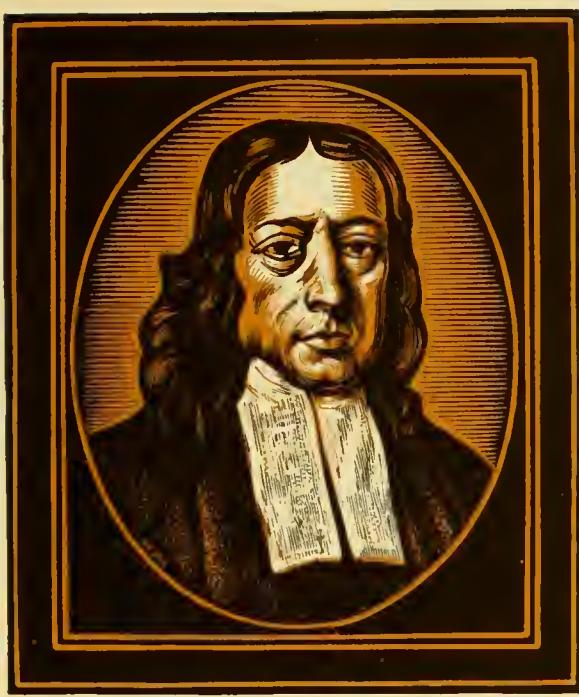

Dr. Thompson Mitchell had been a good administrator and had brought the school its first prosperity. Upon his resignation in August, 1869, the Rev. W. Lee Spottswood was elected. A later president, Dr. Gray, in describing him said: "Dr. Spottswood brought to the position those qualities which are embodied in mature age, wide culture, ripe scholarship, and dignified character." On December 4, 1873, the Board considered a student petition raised against Dr. Spottswood. Dr. Spottswood resigned on Dec. 16, 1873, the resignation to take effect on January 8, 1874. In spite of the student activities and problems with some of the faculty, Dr. Spottswood's administration was termed a success. $8,787.65 of improvements had been made on the building.

On February 13, 1874, the Rev. Dr. Edward J. Gray, then forty-one years of age, was elected to the presidency. Under his efficient management the Seminary took its place among the best institutions of its kind, and its prosperity was greater than ever before. A report of 1882 compiled by a visiting committee from several of the church's Annual Conferences showed the place Williamsport Dickinson Seminary held in the admiration of the church.

"The order and discipline of the School are among its marked features, and while it is not denominational in any narrow sense, it maintains very thoroughly the creed of our great aggressive Evangelism, and hence revivals are common among the students, and nearly all of them are professors of religion. It has happened in other schools, to the great grief of Christian parents, that their children have returned, after graduating, that if not actually lost to the Church, with yet only a nominal religion; but we feel assured that the young people in this Seminary have all the helps and stimulants to a thoroughly Christian life which are to be found in our best Christian homes, and that it is as much the desire of the excellent President and his assistants to develop the religious character of those entrusted to their care as to promote their intellectual growth and culture." To the character of the school was added the further advantage of its location in Williamsport. According to the school's catalogue of 1884: "The city is situated on the West Branch of the Susquehanna River, has a population of twenty thousand, is widely known for its intelligence, its enterprise, the taste displayed in the character of its public buildings and private residences, and the moral appliances with which it is furnished. In small towns and villages the facilities for culture—intellectual as well as aesthetic and moral—are generally limited, rarely reaching beyond the institution itself, and hence student life must become monotonous, lacking the inspiration which a larger place with wider opportunities affords. Twenty-seven churches, an active temperance organization and a branch of the Young Men's Christian Association, embracing many of the most earnest Christians in the community, with a large library free to all, and accessible at all times, indicates some of the religious influences brought to bear upon the young in Williamsport."

Dickinson Seminary under the leadership of Dr. Gray were numerous and outstanding. Additional instruction courses on stringed instruments and new departments of art and education were added. Bible study was included as a part of the eight regular courses, and a Kindergarten Department was established. A reference library, proposed in 1885, was started, and several scholarships were established. Physical additions and improvements to the campus were also numerous. Dr. Gray was personally responsible for the construction of a boy's gymnasium. The athletic field was leveled and a grandstand with 1,000 seating capacity was constructed. During Dr. Gray's administration Old Main was greatly improved. In 1888 work was begun on the demolition of the six story, middle section of Old Main. Because of a weakness in the girders it was necessary to completely reconstruct that portion of the building. The building was renovated and its 81 apartments were painted and papered. This was done at a cost slightly over $13,000. In 1890 electricity was wired in to replace the coal oil lamps. In spite of this work, there was still a housing shortage. Bradley Hall was erected in 1896 at a cost of $18,600 and served as a conservatory of art and music.

1896 marked the semi-centennial anniversary of the Seminary and the 25th year of Dr. Gray's presidency. Ten states were represented at the celebration, and resources to write off the existing debts were obtained. It was reported that in 25 years $76,074.85 of permanent property was added to the Seminary's holdings. Almost half of this was from contributions personally solicited by Dr. Gray. Forty-three students received diplomas that year.

The seminary football team reached its greatest heights during Dr. Gray's years in the presidency. In 1897-1898 the Seminary had played Williamsport Y. M. C. A., Williamsport High School, and Newberry. By 1902 the schedule had grown to include Dickinson, Pennsylvania State, Lewisburg A. A., Lock Haven Normal, Mansfield Normal, Bloomsburg Normal, Berwick A. C., and Wyoming Seminary. The fighting eleven in 1902 included a young man named Robert Rich. The Dickinson Union described him: "His work at half was brilliant." This young football hero was later to become the President of the Board of Trustees of the Junior College and Lycoming College.

Dr. Gray died on January 20, 1905. The entire school mourned the death of a beloved man who had devoted 31 years of his life to the development of Williamsport Dickinson Seminary. Dr. Williams P. Eveland, elected on June 9, 1905, came forward to carry on the work so faithfully performed by Dr. Gray. Dr. Eveland was a graduate of Dickinson College and was valedictorian of the class of September, 1898. Soon after he had been elected the charter of the Seminary was changed. Previously there had been nine directors. The amendment of September 22, 1905, stated that there would be thirty members of the Board of Directors, two-thirds of whom shall be members of the Methodist Church, one-third alumni of the Seminary, and one-third members or managers of the Preachers' Aid Society.

Dr. Eveland headed an institution with an enrollment of 377, the largest in its history. The Seminary prospered under his leadership. In addition to other achievements he organized a department of commercial education. The expansion of the school was furthered with the construction of a $36,500 building which was later named Eveland Hall (and at other times known as the Angel Factory because it housed pre-ministerial students). Dr. Eveland was elected Bishop of Southern Asia at the General Conference of the Central Pennsylvania Conference in 1912.

The Rev. Dr. B. C. Conner was elected president of the Seminary on July 18, 1912. The sixty-two year old gentleman was a graduate of the institution and had served pastorates in a distinguished manner for twenty-six years. One of Dr. Conner's most notable talents was the ability to raise funds. He secured funds to pay the $20,500 debt remaining to be paid for the construction of Eveland Hall.

*And I say that life is darkness save when there is urge,
And all urge is blind save when there is knowledge,
And all knowledge is vain save when there is work.
And all work is empty save when there is love,
And when you work with love you bind yourself to yourself, and to one another, and to God.*

Dr. John W. Long was the man who steered the seminary through Junior College days and saw it established as a fully accredited four-year Liberal Arts college. At the beginning of his thirty-four years of service, Dr. Long found a school of 347 students, three buildings, and a total endowment of $80,724.22. At his retirement in 1955 there had been added: a gymnasium; Clarke Memorial Chapel; Memorial Hall, classroom building; Rieh Hall Dormitory for women students; the John W. Long Library; a Fine Arts Building; and a President's Residence. The area of the campus had been greatly increased by the purchase of properties to Washington Boulevard and in surrounding blocks and the property of Floeks Brewery. The endowment had been raised to $800,000 and the enrollment was 621 full-time students.

In the middle of the "Roaring Twenties" the Seminary had somewhat changed its disciplining ideas of former days, but high standards of conduct continued to be expected. "The Seminary believes that young people can be led better than they can be driven. It strives to inspire its students with high ideals rather than to force them to do right through fear of punishment. But any lawlessness is promptly, and, if necessary, severely dealt with. Those who will not try to do right are not wanted at the Seminary." "The ladies' apartments are entirely separate from the others. Young ladies are chaperoned to all public entertainments. Association of the young men and young women except in the presence of instructors is not countenanced."

The Dickinson Union of November, 1925, contained accounts of social life at the Seminary.

The first "social" of the Fall Term in 1925 was on Saturday night, September 27th. "The social ice was broken by the famous game of wink, which, though played the 'Seminary Way,' was enjoyed by all."

A reception for the students was given by the Mulberry Street Methodist Church.

A hike for the girls was a pleasant surprise. Saturday, October 3, it was whispered through the girls' halls that Miss Herrington would take the girls for a hike to the mountains. Now, we had often looked longingly toward that mountain but we did not know Miss Herrington had seen us look.

About four o'clock we started, without waste of time, to the stone quarry and Sulphur Springs. We busied ourselves scouting about and cutting sticks to cook our supper. Just then Mr. Bauman arrived with the eats. In a few minutes we had a roaring fire and sizzling doggies and tempting apples, all tending to increase our enormous appetites. We did not try to see which one ate the most, but we know everyone had enough.

Most of the girls came back on the truck but those who "hiked it" with Miss Herrington reported a better time than ever. They arrived about a half an hour behind time, but seemed to be glad for the opportunity of being out to see the moon rise and—they know the rest."

But by far the most enjoyable was the annual Chestnut Party when the whole school took a day off from studies to travel to Sylvan Dell Park for food, games, and good fun.

The definite move toward Junior College status was begun in 1929 when the Seminary started giving Junior College work. Dr. Long and M. B. Rich, president of the Board, both realized the increasing need of education beyond high school and the lack of need for high schools due to the advance of public high schools. However, there was a long hard struggle for accreditation. There was even some opposition from four year institutions such as Dickinson College. Robert F. Rich, then in the House of Representatives and President of the Board, met with Dr. J. Henry Morgan of Dickinson College and enlisted his aid in gaining accreditation. The University Senate of the Methodist Church finally approved the move, and in 1935 Dickinson Seminary became the first fully accredited Junior College in Pennsylvania.

Fine Arts Building

The move to junior college undoubtedly figured heavily in the survival of the school during the depression when people could not afford to send their children to a preparatory school or college away from home. In 1931, there were 280 students enrolled with 90 in the junior college. The tuition at this time was $150 for the high school and $200 for the junior college. In 1933, Dr. Long reported that students from the junior college were successfully continuing their education at eighteen of the leading colleges and universities of the East.

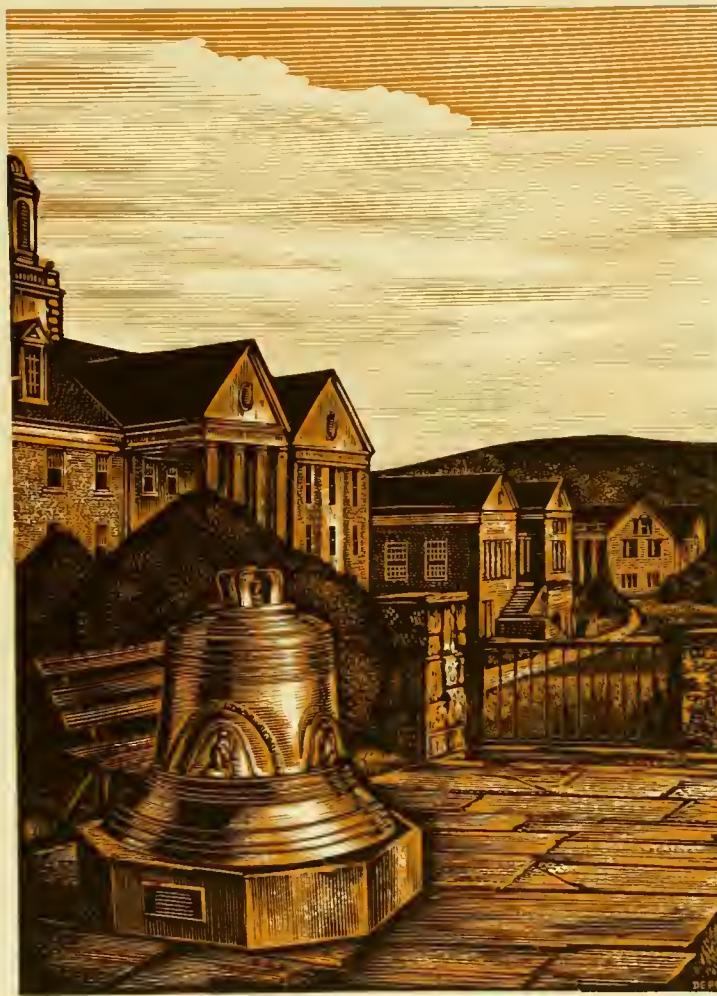

In 1930, M. B. Rich, a long-time friend of the Seminary and President of the Board of Trustees, died. He had spent much time and money in the interest of the school including the endowment of a "chair of religious education" which he had provided just before his death. Robert F. Rich, his son, succeeded him as President of the Board.

Through the interest and financial support of Miss Martha Charles the college gained both property and the Clarke Memorial Chapel. The Chapel was dedicated on October 14, 1939.

Also in the thirties came a great boost in athletics. New steel and concrete bleachers were built. In 1931, the football team claimed the Prep School Championship playing such teams as Mount Carmel High School, Albright Freshmen, Penn State Freshmen, Mansfield Teachers, and Dickinson Freshmen.

The Junior College continued to prosper in the Thirties with distinguished guests such as Edward Markham, poet; Ralph Sockman, preacher; and the New York Symphony Orchestra visiting the campus. Frank W. Ake as alumni chairman was busily arousing alumni interest. In 1941 there were 307 students in the Junior College, 418 in the institution. Also during this time, the school received money from both city and Conference campaigns. The Fine Arts Building and President's Residence were also completed, the first having been donated by the William Fleming Rich Family.

Immediately following the attack on Pearl Harbor and the declaration of war, Dr. Long and the board of directors began planning for an Army education unit. The influx of cadets forced the faculty and students to vacate dormitory space. In 1944 Dr. Long reported that 910 air crew students and 59 students in the United States Cadet Nurse Corps had been in the College Training Detachment.

The story of the transaction from a junior college to a fully accredited four-year institution is as exciting as a novel. President Long announced that he had sent a letter to Dr. John L. Seaton, President of the University Senate of the Methodist Church, giving reasons why a change in the junior college status was being considered. Several board members supported this change, but Congressman Rich hesitated because of a promise he had made to Dr. Morgan of Dickinson College in securing his help for the change in the junior college status, which was that the Seminary would not consider becoming a four-year college. Judge Charles Williams was made chairman of a committee to meet with committees from Dickinson College and the University Senate to discuss the proposition.

After this action, Dr. Long began industriously to gain permission from the necessary groups to accomplish his purpose and to have the board take positive action. However, some members of the board were opposed to the change. Many influential church men hesitated, and although the Williamsport community favored the move, the leaders were apprehensive about its success.

There were many arguments in favor of a four-year college: the crowded condition of all colleges made it impossible to gain admittance for Williamsport Dickinson graduates to other schools; the great number of veterans who wanted college education could not get into other colleges; because there were 500,000 Methodists in Pennsylvania, expansion of the program would not interfere with Dickinson College as these would be the only Methodist institutions in the state; the increase of publicly-supported junior colleges would be too great competition.

Dr. Long and Judge Williams continued their campaign by holding a meeting for nearly one hundred area Methodist ministers to enumerate the benefits of a four-year college. They also discussed the matter with Bishop Corson who suggested caution and that an inquiry be made to Dickinson College to see how many graduates could be accepted into their junior class. Dickinson replied that 25 was all they could take of the 200 in the Seminary's graduating class. On January 24, 1947, Judge Williams and his committee met with a committee from Dickinson College. They were told that Williamsport Dickinson was in no way obligated by the promise made to Dr. Morgan and were requested not to have Dickinson as part of the name of the school.

The seemingly difficult problem of choosing a name ended in October of 1947 when the board unanimously selected "Lycoming." Dr. Long had wanted the name "Crever College" in honor of the founder of the school. Other names under discussion had been: University of Williamsport, Northern Methodist, Loyalsock College, and Muney College. Lycoming was the name chosen and on June 17, 1948, when permission was secured from the Pennsylvania Department of Education, an order was signed officially changing the name.

The new charter also allowed the granting of baccalaureate degrees in the Arts and Sciences.

Accreditation was a necessary and major step. Committees from both the University Senate of the Methodist Church and the Middle States Association of Colleges visited the campus twice. On the first visit in March of 1948, the Middle States Association Committee refused accreditation but made several suggestions. Members of the University Senate committee stated that a library and science building were necessary and that the faculty should be reorganized with a decentralization of authority. On June 3, 1950, it was reported to the board that accreditation had been granted by both groups.

The library, being a necessity for accreditation, came under serious consideration. In May 1949, $1,800 was allocated to the James V. Brown Library for the use of its facilities by college students. A committee was appointed to study the matter. The site was chosen at the suggestion of the University Senate Committee and on February 11, 1950, plans were approved. Plans were also made for a science building.

Adjoining the college property was the Flock Brewery Company which had lost its prosperity due to prohibition. After much bargaining the property was purchased for $83,000 by the school. The brewery and smokestack were later razed leaving the bottling works to be renovated for the science hall.

Of concern in the early 1950's was the desire to have a teacher training program at the school. After much agitation from October, 1950, the application was finally approved in November, 1952.

Rich Hall, the girls' dormitory, constructed in 1948, at a cost of $286,000 was the first modern building on campus. It was named in honor of the Rich family of Woolrich, the chief benefactors of the college. Also at this time, an acute lack of classroom space prompted Dr. Long to negotiate the purchase of a building from the government. This was named Soldiers and Sailors Memorial Hall and served as classrooms and laboratories.

In March of 1954, Dr. Long announced his decision to resign at the end of the school year in 1955. A committee was immediately selected to choose a new president. Dr. Long had spent the greatest part of his ministry serving the school, and Lycoming stands as a result of his hard and dedicated work. In his last report to the Conference, he brought to the members' attention that 137 of the 277 ministers in the Conference had attended the institution. He reported an enrollment of 621 students with 100 more in night school and 50 special students, and an endowment of $800,000 and a debt free property evaluation of $2,610,000. He also mentioned the many services the school provided for the conference and church groups.

On July 1, 1955, David Frederick Wertz took full charge of the presidency. After his election on October 28, 1954, he had been in close contact with all the committees and was ready to move ahead. A special session of the Central Pennsylvania Conference was held in November, 1955, in honor of the new president. Part of the activities of the day included a ground-breaking ceremony for a new men's dormitory later to be named Wesley Hall.

The first major concern of the new administration was the neglected faculty. So much attention had been placed on the struggle to attain four-year status that there had been little time to consider the faculty other than struggling to retain college level teachers. After his first year, Dr. Wertz added 17 new teachers. After four years, the faculty and administrative staff numbered nearly one hundred with nearly twenty earned doctorates in comparison to seven in 1950.

Further, the new administration urged the faculty on to advanced study by granting leaves of absence. Financial aid was offered. Many faculty members took advantage of this offer. In 1959, as further encouragement, the executive committee decided to offer financial inducements and leave of absences to those wishing to study for a doctorate, this in addition to sabbatical leaves.

Also at the beginning of Dr. Wertz's administration, a development committee was set up under Judge Williams. A seven year program including a $3,750,000 building program was outlined. A survey team from the University Senate, in a visit to the campus, recommended the program of the development committee and their report served as a guide for future development.

Several buildings were purchased or built during the first four years of Dr. Wertz's administration. A house was purchased with a gift from Robert F. Rich to relieve the crowded condition of Rich Hall. The building was renovated to house twenty girls and was named Rich House. After arrangements with Federal Housing and Home Finance, a new men's dormitory was built at a cost of $404,000. Ready for occupancy on September 1, 1956, the dormitory was named Wesley Hall.

The bottling works building had not been torn down and plans for renovation began in 1953. At first the cost was estimated at $40,000 but the final renovation cost was approximately $200,000. The modern laboratories, classrooms, and science auditorium of the science building was a great advance for the school.

The Student Activities Building with its many recreational facilities and dining facilities for 900 was finished in the spring of 1959 at a cost of $650,000. This building was a necessity because it was impossible to feed the student body, even in two shifts, in the Clarke Hall, and there was no place for extra-curricular activities.

In 1949, Walter McIver had joined the faculty and had built an a capella choir which became famous throughout the area. In 1957, the choir toured England and Scotland and received a very warm reception.

The ambitious development program necessitated a financial campaign which was begun in Williamsport early in 1958. Pledges came in totaling $950,000 to be used for the balance owed on the science hall, for the Student Activities Building, and the major part for a gymnasium-auditorium. Also at this time the college was able to purchase eight acres from the Williamsport Consistory for an athletic field.

Growth was apparent in other areas. The college athletic program grew to college status under Coach Dave Busey. Besides football, basketball, and baseball, wrestling, swimming, soccer, tennis, and golf were added as inter-collegiate sports. The student body grew from 785 in 1956 to 911 in 1958. The College Entrance Examination Board's Scholastic Aptitude Test began to be used as a basis for admission. It was planned in 1959 to hold the enrollment at 850 until 1962, then to increase gradually to 1200.

Religion continued to receive major emphasis at Lycoming. Many ministers in the surrounding conferences had graduated from the school in one of its phases. The annual conference also supported the school.

Between 1951 and 1955, five national fraternities were recognized on campus. All of these had been local fraternities. Theta Pi Pi which became Psi Chapter of Kappa Delta Rho was the oldest, having been formed in 1896 during seminary days.

Although the seminary graduates remained loyal to Williamsport Dickinson, many went on to four-year schools that claimed most of their loyalty. When the college was established, more interest was taken in the alumni association and more activity was devoted to fund raising and other school activities. This interest led to the election of three board members by the association.

At the present time three housing units are under construction: two for men and one for women. By 1965 the college plans to have under construction an administration building, to replace Old Main, a classroom and faculty office building; and a gymnasium-auditorium.

The school gains distinction by having the only Student Union Building in the country completely run by the students. Plans are being made to gradually put more responsibility in the hands of the students by adopting an all-campus honor system.

Every year, the college becomes more selective. Each freshman class shows more promise than the last. Standards are being raised. Lycoming is a school to be proud of from her distinguished past to her bright promise for the future. Surely she is doing her part in serving "the vocation of humanity."

DR. DAVID G. MOBBERLEY

. . . for his many years of devoted attention to those elements which make a college community a thoroughly knit organization; for his industrious labors in instituting programs for the raising of academic standards; for his constant awareness of the necessity of attaining and preserving a well-rounded curricula; for his insight into the problems encountered in attaining knowledge, and his ready solutions to them; for his ease and friendliness in daily encounters with students, faculty, and administration; and finally, for his true sense of justice and spirit of initiative evidenced in all he does, we dedicate this, the 1962 ARROW, to DR. DAVID G. MOBBERLEY, academic dean of Lycoming College.

with fondness:

with praise:

MISS ONALEE BARTON

Chieftain Award

One of the highest honors which can be bestowed upon a Lycoming College student is to be added to the ranks of those who are known as the Chieftain. To be chosen as the recipient of such an honor, the student must be of high scholastic rating, and must possess those other qualities which make students outstanding on campus. Industriousness, skill, and mental ability all go into the makeup of a superior student; but in addition to these, humor, wit, personality, charm are attributes of a Chieftain. It is the remarkable combination of all these qualities which makes the Chieftain a Student among students.

So it is with great pride that we proclaim as the 1962 Chieftain, Miss Onalee Barton.

Iruska Honor Society

Tapping is an old Indian manner of initiating members into a group. Since Iruska means "Warriors who win high honors," it is fitting that this honor society should use a modified form of this custom. Each Move-up Day since 1954, the senior members have donned blue hats with a yellow letter "I" and have tapped seven juniors into the organization.

The society is designed to recognize those juniors who have been active in extra-curricular activities and who have enhanced college organizations by their outstanding leadership and ability. Further recognition is given to the new members of Iruska each year by the addition of their names to a plaque displayed in the Student Union Building.

THE HONORABLE ROBERT F. Rich

Board of Directors

The Board of Directors of Lycoming College is composed of thirty members who are elected for terms of three years. In accordance with the charter and by-laws of the college, two-thirds of the board must be members of the Methodist Church, one-third must be alumni of the college, and one-third must be members of the Preachers' Aid Society of the Central Pennsylvania Conference of the Methodist Church.

Through the functioning of its six standing committees the board determines which faculty members are to be re-elected to their positions, has charge of all endowments and funds, supervises the annual audit, acts on athletic policy and programs, supervises the care and control of all buildings, grounds, and equipment, is responsible for plans and specifications of new buildings, and recommends the candidates on whom honorary degrees are to be conferred. Thus, it is the responsibility of the Board of Directors to make the major decisions concerning the policies of the college.

DR. D. FREDERICK WERTZ

To the Class of 1962:

A college career comes all too quickly to an end. How far distant graduation seemed four years ago! What a short time it actually appears to be in retrospect!

But few would want to recall the time and start all over again. This is the stuff of which life is made and we move on from one fulfillment to the opportunity of another tomorrow.

College has a way of being good to most of us and we reach the end of its road stronger than we began: wiser, too. This is to say that your tomorrow will demand of you greater responsibility than your yesterday.

You now bear the stamp of the College. It is a good stamp and you have every reason to be proud. We want to be proud, too, because the imprint you carry has been made possible by the devotion of all who have had a hand in your education.

We bid you well!

GOVERNING BODIES

Student Government Association

The Student Government Association takes increasing responsibility in the furthering of campus affairs, academic as well as social, and employs to this end all such means as are permitted by the college framework. The association does not exist as an isolated group. It is, in itself, a collective term which actually includes every student of Lycoming College. The operating core of this association is the student council, composed of four representatives who are elected from each class, five officers, and one representative from each campus organization. All the energies of this organization are dedicated to the worthwhile and high ideal of a greater Lycoming College where the individual student might further his understanding of the cultural and intellectual milieu. As each class leaves the college, much of what it has learned and much of the understanding which it has gained have come through the efforts of this dedicated and efficient organization.

Standing — G. Wilson, G. Kofman, P. Pierce, J. Krebs, L. Wolfe, G. Johnson, R. Lee, E. Craft.

Student Union Board

The Student Union Board of Lycoming College is composed of a board chairman, seven co-chairmen of major committees, a secretary and a treasurer. The board exists to provide a comprehensive social and recreational program which will extend itself to every student on the campus. Putting to the best use all of the many facilities of the Student Union Building, the board plans and provides many interesting and varied activities with which the Lycoming student may enhance his leisure hours. The broad expanse of activities sponsored range from Mid-Week Series discussions by famous theologians to T G I F programs of jazz and light music. The facets of the Student Union Board program cover, in the performance of these and many other functions, a range of experience for the students wherein each may find an outlet for his particular talent. In so doing the program serves as a laboratory for learning for the entire campus community.

The Lycoming Review

The Lycoming Review had its origin during the winter of 1959-1960 in the discussions of a group of students interested in creative writing. At the time plans for a magazine were made, a title was chosen, and several manuscripts assembled. However, funds and time lacking, the project was set aside, at least until the following year. In the spring of 1961 funds for a college literary magazine were made available by Student Government. Thomas R. McIntosh was appointed editor and the first issue was published under the title: The Light. When McIntosh graduated, G. English succeeded him as editor. The title was changed to The Lycoming Review and additional funds were raised through the sale of patron subscriptions, thus making three issues of the magazine possible.

The Lycoming Review has a two-fold objective: To encourage and give notice to the best literary talent of the college student body; and of even more importance, to provide Lycoming College with a magazine of which it can be justly proud. In attempting to achieve the first part of this goal The Review sponsored two short story and poetry contests during the winter and spring of the past year. In the interpretation of the second part of the goal, faculty members were invited to contribute material, thus imparting additional interest and variety to the magazine. Towards the same end, the works of talented writers from other colleges were featured.

Thus The Lycoming Review has made a good beginning. And with the realization by its staff of what is still to be done and their determination to do it, and with the continued support of Lycoming's students, there can be little doubt that the magazine will fulfill its true potential.

THE BELL

The Bell, Lycoming College's weekly news publication, is the medium through which students and faculty, parents and friends, see the life of the campus. The Bell staff members, advised by Mr. Joseph Peck and Mrs. James Madden, strive to reflect Lycoming's character by reporting major happenings on the campus and publishing student and faculty opinion on various topics of campus and world interest.

The last issue of The Bell's predecessor, the Lycoming Courier, was published in April of 1957. In December of the same year the first issue of The Bell appeared, and, replacing the Courier, The Bell continued to be the prime source of general information for the campus.

The goal of The Bell is to serve the college through covering campus activities and reflecting campus life. Because this goal is being realized, The Bell is considered to play an increasingly important part of the college community.

WLCR

V. McNelly, F. Evans, R. Kolle, P. Young, P. Glevenger, B. Benson, R. Knoebel,
P. Jackson, P. Pucher, R. Hancock.

This year, WLCR celebrates its fourth birthday. The station was founded by Gerald Benway in the fall of 1957. The following years were ones in which it took great strides forward. In the fall of 1960, the station registered its call letters with the Federal Communications Commission. In January, 1961, WLCR joined the Inter-Collegiate Broadcasting System, a nationwide network of college radio stations.

Throughout the year WLCR has continued its progress by extending its coverage to the Student Union Building as well as broadcasting live shows from the Burchfield Lounge. During the year, regular programs are heard five nights a week between the hours of 7:00 P. M. and 12:00 midnight. A variety of programs including campus news, sports, and music is offered to bring the student closer to the campus via his radio.

FRATERNITIES

Inter-Fraternity Council

Composed of two representatives from each fraternity and three executive officers, the IFC works to provide Lycoming College with the best examples of manhood through encouraging the individual chapters to fulfill the objectives and ideals of their fraternity.

This year, the IFC sponsored a beard-growing contest in conjunction with the Sesqui-Centennial Celebration of Lycoming and also a Twistathon. Both events were held during Winter Weekend. The IFC aided the community by giving of its manpower and time to help solicit funds for the Muscular Dystrophy drive. The annual IFC Ball was held again this year during Spring Weekend; this is an all-college dance sponsored by Lycoming's fraternity men through the IFC.

In December, two delegates from Lycoming's Inter-Fraternity Council were sent to the National Inter-Fraternity Conference Convention in Boston. Attending the many discussions and lectures brought a fuller understanding to these delegates and influenced subsequent programs of the local council in an attempt to benefit the fraternities of Lycoming and to be an asset to the college itself.

Serving and strengthening fraternalism is the job of the IFC. This in turn serves Lycoming College and our society.

Alpha Gamma Upsilon

The goal of Alpha Gamma Upsilon Fraternity is to provide training and discipline to the individual who, in seeking an education, desires to make himself a useful member of society, possessing knowledge, trained skill and capacity for accomplishment. Alpha Gamma Upsilon, as a group organization, seeks to teach men how to live and work together, striving by precept and example for the personal development of the individual in the training of mind and body.

Alpha Gamma Upsilon was founded in 1922 at Fort Wayne, Indiana. Organized here at Lycoming College in 1951, Nu Chapter has worked to develop those qualities of companionship, kindness and brotherhood which, with a knowledge and training in appraising the basic values of life, will lead toward a better man.

Socially and scholastically active, Alpha Gamma Upsilon presents a challenge to its new members to uphold and encourage its principles and ideals which have become so much a part of college life.

Kappa Delta Rho

The Psi Chapter of Kappa Delta Rho was founded at Lycoming College in 1953. Since that time Psi has risen to a position of respect among the fraternities on campus. In addition to their well-known physical prowess, the brothers of Kappa Delta Rho have made great social, cultural and intellectual advances in the last few years. The brothers have displayed a marked degree of proficiency in float-building, singing, acting and studying, plus participating in sports on the varsity and intramural levels. An active social schedule is highlighted by the annual Christmas and Founders' Day Banquets. Kappa Delta Rho has assumed an increased leadership on campus and has shown increasing co-operation with the Inter-Fraternity Council Administration while maintaining its prized individualism and spirit.

Above all else, Kappa Delta Rho strives to impress upon its members the significance of its motto Honor Super Omnia. It was with this motto as a basis that Kappa Delta Rho was founded in 1905 at Middlebury College in Vermont.

All of these factors of fraternity life work to mold and enrich the lives of the brothers of Kappa Delta Rho.

Lambda Chi Alpha

Lambda Chi Alpha Fraternity was founded at Boston University more than half a century ago and since that time has grown into one of the strongest national fraternities with over 150 chapters. It provides for its members a home during four of their most important character-forming years, and provides a fellowship that will give rewarding experiences for the rest of their lives.

In June of 1951 Lambda Chi Alpha was established on the Lycoming College Campus. Since that time it has distinguished itself as a fraternity benefiting both its members and the college. This was shown in Iota Beta Zeta's being awarded the President's Cup in 1960-1961, a cup awarded to the most outstanding fraternity. Iota Beta also received the national fraternity's highest award for scholarship at the last national fraternity workshop, and has been at the scholastic head of the five campus fraternities for the past nine semesters.

Sigma Pi

Founded on February 26, 1897, at Vincennes University, Vincennes, Indiana. Sigma Pi Fraternity assumed the purpose of forming a brotherhood of and for college men, with the objectives of promoting scholarship and culture, advancing the cause of education and raising the standards of morality. In the years since, Sigma Pi has sent men into all walks of life; its alumni are engaged in diversified occupations and professions, and it is the belief of the members everywhere that there exists no better place than the chapter of a fraternity for the training of young men to take their place in the American scene.

The brothers of Beta Lambda Chapter, founded at Lycoming in 1953, support and nurture these ideals. They feel that the responsibility of the fraternity lies in the maintenance and development of the standards of chivalry and culture within the college setting, and in the preparation of the members to cope with the problems of life and to appreciate life's values.

Sigma Pi's pledge program reflects this attitude. Each pledge must satisfy the requisites of the college and the fraternity for initiation. Prior to his initiation, he is given a three-month period of constructive training and instruction. In the following years, his membership both in fraternity and college life is guided by the idea that success in life is a result of his ability to work with and understand his fellows. No other agency can provide a young man with this valuable training as well as does the fraternity.

Theta Chi

Since its installation on October 22, 1955, Epsilon Beta Chapter of Theta Chi Fraternity at Lycoming College has striven to attain the fullest expression of its motto: "alma mater first and theta chi for alma mater."

Serving the College in outward aspects in addition to producing students and graduates loyal to their "adopted mother," Epsilon Beta Chapter has been a leader in scholarship, campus activities, and community projects.

This year, Theta Chi at Lycoming was honored by the Grand Chapter as leading the Theta Chi Chapters in scholarship among the small institutions. The chapter was the First Runner-Up for the Lewis Trophy, a national Theta Chi award to the best all-around Theta Chi Chapter.

Under far-thinking leadership and with loyal group support, Epsilon Beta Chapter of Theta Chi Fraternity continues to provide the college with an able, mature, and willing fraternity, dedicated to its brothers, "the helping hand," and the Alma Mater.

The powerful Lycoming grapplers coached by Budd Whitehill swept three individual titles as they easily captured their first Middle Atlantic Conference Wrestling Championship held on March 3, 1962. Lyco scored 70 team points followed by host West Chester with 55, Bucknell with 44 and Wilkes and Hofstra tied with 37 points each. The Warrior success ended Wilkes' four year possession of the title.

Lyco practically had the tourney won before the finals got under way. The mathematical clincher came when captain Bill Kehrig scored a second period fall over West Chester's Pete Palett at 137. Kehrig, unscored upon in the tournament, gained his second consecutive title after having won at 130 last year. Freshman Dave Fortin pulled the tournament's biggest surprise by walking off with 177 pound honors after compiling only a 3-2 dual meet log. Fortin looked very sharp in beating seeded men in three of his four wins.

Heavyweight Joe Confer, wrestling conservatively and deliberately, won a pair of riding time decisions for his championship. He defeated Bill Lites of Temple 3-2 in the finals.

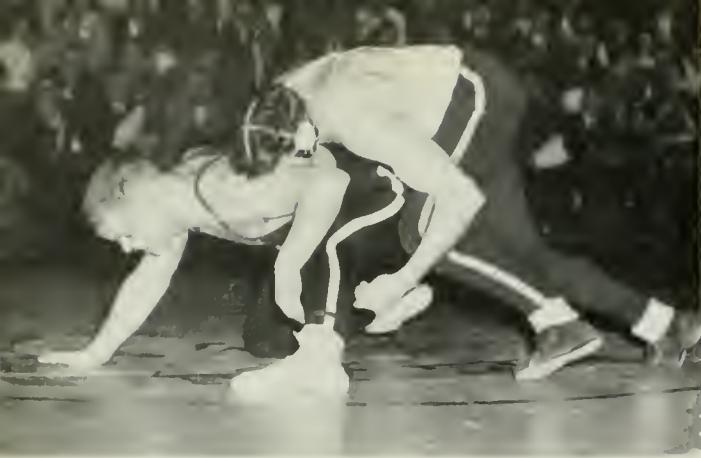

Four other Warriors scored in this strong team effort. At 123, Lee Wolfe moved to the finals before dropping a 7-3 decision. Ron Knobel scored a pin and a decision but was eliminated from the tournament by a 4-2 score against Al Schwetzer of West Chester.

Bill Guttermuth came back strongly after losing a 12-10 quarter final decision to Bucknell by winning third place with a 5-3 decision to Hofstra. Art Oraschin dropped a first round match to fourth place winner Bucknell at 167.

This championship performance closed out Lycoming's most successful season on the mats as the Warriors were 11-1 in dual meet competition.

Scenes from the Lycoming Players production of G. B. Shaw's Candida.

The Lycoming Players began their '61-'62 season with a Workshop Production of two one act plays, The Stronger by August Strindberg, and Table By The Window from Separate Tables by Terence Rattigan. As a Workshop Production, these works were chosen, cast, and directed by students under the guidance of Mr. Charles W. Raison, head of the Department of Speech. The chief purpose of these productions was to bring a fuller understanding and appreciation of the theatre to the actors, directors, crews, and audience. With the conclusion of the performances, the audience was asked to participate in an informal discussion of the works with the members of the cast.

George Bernard Shaw's three act comedy Candida was presented as the major fall production of the Lycoming Players. Weeks of rehearsals under the direction of Mr. Raison along with hours of work spent on sets, costumes, and props led up to a three night run of the show to thoroughly receptive audiences.

Throughout the season the members of Alpha Psi Omega, the national dramatic honor fraternity, along with members of the Lycoming Players worked many long and industrious hours to renovate Studio II, the theatre workshop. And with all of this, their work was not completed. For with the second semester came their spring production of Squaring the Circle by Valentine Kataev.

Homecoming, the opening social event of the season, was eagerly anticipated by both students and alumni. The week-end began with the introduction of the new faculty members to the college. The induction of new choir members, tours around campus, and the annual football game with its traditional float contest and Homecoming Queen competition were events which followed. Norey Jones, the entry of the Lycoming College Choir, was crowned Homecoming Queen at the Delaware Valley-Lycoming football game. She, in turn, honored Dr. Milton J. Skeath for his forty years of service to the college by knighting him "Sir Milton." Kappa Delta Rho Fraternity won the float competition with a covered wagon display. Dancing to strains of Larry Elgart's orchestra on Saturday evening brought the excitement to a climax. After a Sunday afternoon concert, both students and alumni felt the quiet satisfaction which comes after such a week-end has been enjoyed.

May Day-1962

The highlight of the spring semester at Lycoming is the arrival of May Day weekend with all of its festive activities and culminating in the crowning of the May Queen. The annual pageant sponsored by the Physical Education Department of the college featured scenes from the "Roaring Twenties" in keeping with the weekend theme. The selections by the College Choir added to the enjoyment of the students, parents, and alumni attending, and another memorable event was added to those which made 1961-62 a year to be remembered.

LYCOMING COLLEGE

D. FREDERICK WERTZ, President

Lycoming College is a coeducational liberal arts college which grants the Bachelor of Arts degree. The liberal arts program is basic to the professions of medicine, dentistry, law, theology and teaching, and is desirable for those planning to enter the fields of science, pharmacy, veterinary medicine and engineering.

Lycoming believes that a liberal arts education is still the best hope for an enlightened citizenry. It believes that vocational and professional specialization—an obvious necessity today—should be built on a foundation of liberal education embracing the humanities, the sciences and social sciences.

Students may concentrate their studies in one or more of the following areas:

ART	MATHEMATICS
BIOLOGY	MEDICAL TECHNOLOGY
BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION	MUSIC
CHEMISTRY	PHILOSOPHY
COOPERATIVE ENGINEERING	PHYSICS
ECONOMICS	POLITICAL SCIENCE
EDUCATION	PSYCHOLOGY
ENGLISH	RELIGION
FOREIGN LANGUAGES	SOCIOLOGY
HISTORY

Students preparing to teach in the public schools must select an academic major in addition to completing professional courses required for certification by the Pennsylvania State Department of Public Instruction.

With a very special thank you to P. David Mitchell for his assistance in securing advertisements, to the Brothers of Theta Chi for their time and trouble to sell ad space, and to Henry N. Wein for his excellent work in photographing the faculty and administration of the college.

THE EDITORS

The historical sketch of the first one hundred and fifty years of Lycoming College has been compiled and prepared by Miss Dawn Sestina with the assistance of Miss Carol MacKenzie and Miss Carol Oot. They, and we, wish to thank Judge Charles S. Williams, Dr. Helen B. Weidmann, and the staff of the John Long Library for providing the historical facts concerning the college. And we would like to voice a special "thank you" to Mr. John DePol, A.N.A., for permission to reproduce the series of woodcuts of Lycoming College buildings. These woodcuts were cut by Mr. DePol to be presented as a limited edition during this sesquicentennial year.
